DETROIT – The Detroit Red Wings today announced a partnership with Michigan Office Solutions (MOS) to make the business-solutions company the Official Print Services Partner of the Red Wings. Prior to the start of the 2014-15 Red Wings season, MOS implemented new Xerox printers ranging from small departmental devices to enterprise-level Xerox commercial quality units between Joe Louis Arena, the Fox Theatre, Hockeytown Café and Hockeytown Authentics.

“We’re excited to partner with a Michigan-based organization committed to helping us improve our work environment and streamline our printing process,” said Olympia Entertainment President Tom Wilson. “Through our partnership with MOS, we’ve updated our printing equipment and added numerous machines to help improve our print quality and output when creating collateral for our team, fans and corporate partners.”

“MOS is excited to be a part of such a great hockey organization as the Detroit Red Wings,” said Michigan Office Solutions President Ralph Slider. “Like the Red Wings, MOS is committed to investing in Detroit and making a difference in the community. It is an honor to be named the Official Print Services Partner and we look forward to building a great relationship.”

As part of the agreement, MOS will be the presenting partner of the 2015 High School Journalist Day, set for Monday, Feb. 9 at Joe Louis Arena. The event brings Michigan high school students to The Joe for an opportunity to get an in-depth, behind-the-scenes look into the world of sports journalism. Students take part in mock press conferences with Red Wings staff, players, coaches & professional media members. Participants also have lunch, tour the press box and watch a Red Wings practice.

MOS is also the Official Print Services Partner of the Grand Rapids Griffins, the Red Wings’ American Hockey League affiliate.
